

FORGETTING HOW TO DRINK WATER

SAMPLE SCRIPT

Welcome to a classic in the world of comedy stage hypnosis. Assuming you have your stage full of somnambulists, the following will always serve as humorous (and potentially messy) routine. As per the featured sample demo, be on stand by with some paper towels (potentially even regular towels).

“You are so dehydrated, you need water. The moment I hand you a bottle of water, you forget how to drink it. You forget how to open a bottle of water. You forget how to use a bottle of water. The moment the bottle of water touches your hand, you forget everything you know about bottled water. The moment I snap my fingers and you wake up, everything will be back to normal except you will feel parched and looking for a way to quench your thirst.”